Port Orange.

Mrs. Nokes, her son and his wife and Mr. and Mrs. Brown engaged one of the automobiles to take them to the Inlet and return one day this week; they also took a ride through the principal streets of Daytona, Sea Breeze and City Beautiful. They all enjoyed the trip very much.

There was a basket social last week in Ridgewood Hall, gotten up by some of the young ladies as well as some of the older ones, for the benefit of the M. E. Parsonage. It was such a success, both socially and financially that the ladies are talking of having another one later in the winter; we hope they will.

Arbor day was observed at our public school by setting out shade trees and greatly improving the appearance of the yard.

Mrs. T. M. Bangs and son are putting down cement walks about the Episcopal church.

Rev. Arnold drove down Sunday and spoke very feelingly of the death of Queen Victoria in his sermon.

Mr. Fair and Wm. Johnson are busy painting Mr. Lufburg's house on the peninsula.

The Port Orange Social club met as usual on Tuesday evening at Ridgewood Hall and spent the evening playing progressive euchre, afterward partook of refreshments, then indulged in a little dancing and had a jolly good time. Mrs. Dr. Du Bois was the hostess of the evening.

Mr. Eldridge arrived from Chicago and joined his family, who are occupying part of Mrs. Simcoe's house. He is a very pleasant gentleman, and a prominent business man of his city.

J. G. Lambert of Rachel, N. C., writes: "I heartily endorse FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE. It does what you claim it will do, and there is nothing equal to it, and I thank you for the good it has done me." Accept no substitute. Dr. J. M. Jones.

Holly Hill News of the Day.

Mr. Johnson and family have moved to the house formerly occupied by W. Faquay.

Mrs. G. W. Harris left on Tuesday for a visit to her daughter, Mrs. Frank Harris. Miss White, the successful lady agriculturist from Hastings, visited here early in the week.

Chas. I. Abbott, of New Smyrna called at our school and was much impressed with the intelligence of the school.

Arbor day was duly observed by the usual planting of trees by the school children.

We certainly must be assuming the importance of a prosperous suburb of Daytona, as last Monday we were visited by the ubiquitous organ grinder with a monkey; what surer sign of our increasing consequence do we require?

TRIED FIVE DOCTORS

Mrs. Francis L. Gales of Missouri Valley, Ia., writes: "I had severe kidney troubles for years, had tried five doctors without benefit, but three bottles of FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE cured me. Dr. J. M. Jones."

A Serious Fall.

As the result of a fall from his bicycle last Saturday Frank Cranford, a bread baker, residing on the peninsula has a fractured skull and a broken collar bone. The accident occurred on the causeway of the North bridge and it is supposed the handle bar of the wheel turned throwing Mr. Cranford to the ground. He was unconscious when picked up and remained in that condition until Monday. Dr. Atwood and Dr. Esch are in attendance and report that at present the injured man is in a fair way of recovering although at first the outlook was very dim. Mr. Cranford was in very destitute condition financially but the people of the peninsula and guests of the different hotels succeeded in raising a fair sized purse with which they hired a nurse and looked after his present needs.

Stop coughing, as it irritates the lungs, and gives them no chance to heal. FOLEY'S HONEY AND TAR CURE without causing a strain in throwing off the phlegm like common cough expectorants. Dr. J. M. Jones.

The stock-holders of the Halifax River Bridge and Railroad company held a meeting Tuesday and re-elected the present officers for another year. The owners of the North bridge held a meeting the same and re-elected the present officers.

When you want a physic that is mild and gentle, easy to take and pleasant in effect use Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. Price 25 cents. Sample free. Every box guaranteed. For sale by all druggists.

Will This End It?

W. K. Thomason is in the village battle as the result of his being caught in the act of entering the house of C. H. Lynch Thursday evening. When discovered he had a ladder up to the window and was just crawling inside. A son of C. H. Lynch started for the prowler whereupon he drew a knife, this the young man knocked from his hands and then began a chase which resulted in Thomason being captured on the North bridge.

Thomason has been around this section of the country for several years and until quite recently was mail carrier between Ponce Park and New Smyrna. He no doubt can give information about town recently.

PILES OF PEOPLE

testify to the merit of BANNER SALVE in curing piles. It immediately relieves and cures. No other salve so healing. Dr. J. M. Jones

We Surely Need It.

F. J. Boyce, who is spending the winter at the Palmetto House, in the originator of clock golf in Daytona. Last Saturday he layed out the grounds and the game became popular with the guests immediately. The game comprises twelve posts representing the dial of a clock and are numbered from one up to twelve; the object of the game being to make the dial in the least number of strokes. At the White Mountains, near where Mr. Boyce has a summer home, this game was very popular last summer. The best score here so far is twenty-seven which was made by Miss Goodwin; Mrs. Kimbark comes next with twenty-eight, some of the other ladies requested us not to publish their score as forty was the best they could do. We are very much surprised to see that hotel men, especially and the people in general of Daytona, have not taken steps to promote amusements of this kind long ago. While it is undisputed that we have the most beautiful city and finest beach on the East Coast, amusement of various kinds are demanded by the visitors, and if they do not find them here, many of them will go elsewhere.

Florida Produce Thrown Away

The Florida Farmer and Fruit Grower asserts from 150,000 to 200,000 packages of Florida produce, valued at $20,000 are thrown away in New York City every year. This deplorable result is brought partly by indifferent sorting and packing of indifferent produce, but chiefly by indiscriminate shipping to one center, producing congestion and a diseased market. These facts, says the Farmer, illuminate with a calcium light the necessity of organization among the growers of Florida to regulate the distribution, as the pineapple-growers have done from the beginning. The Farmer suggests as a partial remedy that Florida produce be shipped to markets in the south, where the awakening prosperity has created a demand for and the means to purchase more luxuries.

LA GRIPP QUICKLY CURED.

"In the winter of 1898 and 1899 I was taken down with a severe attack of what is called La Gripp," says F. L. Hewett, a prominent druggist of Winfield, Ill. "The only medicine I used was two bottles of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It broke up the cold and stopped the coughing like magic, and I have never since been troubled with Gripp." Chamberlain's Cough Remedy can always be depended upon to break up a severe cold and ward off any threatened attack of pneumonia. It is pleasant to take, too, which makes it the most desirable and one of the most popular preparations in use for these ailments. For sale by all druggists.

LARGEST FISH IN THE OCEAN.

Quashing Sharks Are Veritable Masters of the Deep.

The biggest fish that swims is known by seafaring men as the basking shark, from its habit of lying for hours on top of the waves when the weather is calm, basking in the sun. Scientific men call this fish the rhinodon. They say its extreme length is 40 feet, but there are plenty of old salts who swear they have seen "baskers" 60 feet long. Huge as the basking shark is, it never has been known to attack a man.

One came ashore off the New England coast some years ago, and another was beached on the California coast near Monterey in 1893. It was plump 40 feet long, and this lends color to the sailor-men's big stories, since it is hardly probable that the largest specimen in existence has been caught. There was a time when basking sharks were termed "common," but that time passed so long ago that they now are counted extremely rare, and the authorities of the British museum have long made a standing offer of $1,000 for the unharmed skin of one. Professor Jordan of the University of California, who examined the Monterey specimen, says that offer never will be taken. In his judgment, it would require labor equivalent to the work of one man two whole months to day a good sized basking shark.

The mouth of the Monterey specimen was of appalling size. Stretched and propped open, it measured ten feet from jaw point to jaw point, and if its throat had been of proportionate dimensions the monster would have been a voracious eater. A team of horses wouldn't have been too large a mouthful for the Monterey shark. No one knows what it weighed, for there were no available scales to weigh it on, but 60 tons, or less than an ordinary locomotive, was given as a conservative estimate. Loaded on a specially constructed truck it would have taken a dozen horses at least to haul it over an asphalt pavement, and more would have been required to transport it over an ordinary country road.

The basking shark is not hunted extensively, because it produces relatively little of commercial value. Nevertheless, the Portuguese fishermen who captured the one at Monterey got three barrels of oil from its liver, and the blubber was used for fuel. The liver of the basking shark captured off the New England shore, Chicago Chronicle.

THE DOCTOR'S JOKE.

He Thought It Funny, but His Patient's View Is Unknown.

If there is anything the old doctor dreads, it is to get the chronic cases. When he encounters one of them he almost dreads to effect a cure. If the patient does get really well or even improves noticeably in condition and appearance, all the other chronic cases in the neighborhood, all the persons similarly afflicted within the knowledge of the rescued one and all that are within the knowledge of every one who has heard of the case, are promptly sent to the successful doctor. And it is asking too much of a physician to request him to cure all of them. Not to put the matter too strongly, one may say the profession regards the chronic cases as hopeless.

When a veteran physician at Washington had a case in the country that he knew he would lose. It was a man of 50, with an "inherited predisposition to heart and liver troubles and one whose habits of life had tended to aggravate the malady. He was utterly hopeless and had tried all the doctors and all the patent medicines he could reach or summon. And the veteran physician treated him with a mixture of hope, because he had none to give. He went out one Sunday on what he was sure was his last visit and found that a certain remedy which he had prescribed and which while necessary for the work he wanted done, still had the effect of reducing the heart action, had been administered about ten times as often as he had directed.

"Why I said give this at 3 p. m.," said the doctor, pointing at his written instructions. "I know," said the amateur nurse, "but I thought you meant begin then and give it every three hours, the same as all the rest."

"Well," replied the old doctor as calmly as if it were a matter of more or less bedbolting, "it doesn't matter." And while he said this, he was a rather grim story, doesn't it? But the rest of the doctors, who heard of it after the funeral, regard it as one of the cleverest jokes in the profession.—Chicago Post.

Chinese Eating.

It is probably true that the Chinese use a greater variety of meats than do the people of other countries, although but little and is set apart for grazing or for the cultivation of food for live stock. Beef is not a common meat, principally because of the Buddhist prejudice against killing any animal, and particularly such a useful one.

Since hogs can be so economically reared, pork is undoubtedly, after rice, the leading article of food. This is eaten in every form, and one may say that every part of the animal is utilized for food. Hous-flesh, venison, antelope and bear are often seen, but but passing through the markets pork, mutton and fowls are the most conspicuous.

For fish the Chinese have an omnivorous appetite, nothing from the water, either fresh or salt, being rejected. A few kittens and puppies may be offered for sale in cages. Those which are intended for the table are fed upon grain and clean food, so that if the nature of this food be considered it is far more wholesome than is the unclean hog. To assert that cats and dogs form a staple article of food is pure fiction.—Forum.

An Unconscious Toast.

Lord Clyde one day after dinner, asked a chaplain to one of the regiments in India for a toast, who, after considering some time, at length exclaimed with great simplicity:

"Alas and alack a day! What can I give?" "Nothing better," replied his lordship. "Come, gentlemen, we'll give a bumper to the person's toast. 'A lass and a lac day.'"

A lac means 100,000 rupees, or $25,000, which is certainly an income to make one happy.—Kansas City Independent.
